

The 5th Yoshida Prize Symposium

November 10th, 2021
~ RIHGA Royal Hotel Kyoto ~
(hybrid symposium*)

2021

Yoshida Prize
Awardee

2020

Prof. Ken-Tsung Wong
National Taiwan University

Prof. Dan Yang
The University of Hong Kong

Invited Lecturers

Prof. Aiko Fukazawa
(Kyoto University)

- 13:30 Opening Remarks
13:40 [Invited Lecture] Aiko Fukazawa (Kyoto University)
Exploring thiophene-fused Nonbenzenoid Hydrocarbons toward Unusual Yet Stable Functional Materials
14:20 [Invited Lecture] Mitsuhiro Arisawa (Osaka University)
Self-Assembled Multilayer-Stabilized Metal Nanoparticle Catalyst for Functional Molecular Synthesis: in-situ Metal Nanoparticle and Nanospace Simultaneous Organization
15:00 Break
15:30 The Yoshida Prize Ceremony
15:40 The Yoshida Prize Lecture Dan Yang (The University of Hong Kong)
Small-molecule-based Fluorescent Sensors for Molecular Detection and Imaging
16:40 The Yoshida Prize Lecture Ken-Tsung Wong (National Taiwan University)
The Contributions to High Efficiency Optoelectronics from An Organic Chemist
18:00 Banquet (invitation only)

Program

Prof. Mitsuhiro Arisawa
(Osaka University)

*The symposium is organized in a hybrid manner (on-site and online). Attendees are requested to specify their preference, on-site or online, upon registration. Scan following QR code for registration by Oct. 18, 2021. No charge for registration. Depending on the situation of COVID-19, participants who chose on-site participation upon registration may be requested to join online.

